The Association has been monitoring the recommendations and travel restrictions due to the Coronavirus. The recommendations being made now by both Federal and State agencies are intended to curb the spread of the virus by early detection and isolation. For communities with no confirmed cases it may be difficult to understand why these measures are being taken. These social distancing measures along with certain modifications to daily routines taken now will have a major impact on the spread and duration of the virus throughout our communities.

There is an emergency Code Officials Qualification Board teleconference meeting set for Monday March 16th to discuss measure and available options with regards to required continued education for code officials. At this time our March seminar has been postponed and our education/site selection committee is working with the hotel to provide this event later in the year to registered individuals.

We will shortly put out information on what measures are approved by the qualifications board and the Association’s steps to assist our members in meeting their educational requirements. If you have not signed up to receive our email newsletters please do so by selecting the link at the bottom of our main webpage. This will allow us to send you the latest news and information on any measures taken. Your safety is important to our Education Committee and Board of Directors and we thank you for your patience as we work through these issues with NCDOI and NCCOQB.

Respectfully

Jeff Griffin

Jeff Griffin/President
NC Building Inspectors Association